GOALS OF THIS COURSE:

This course provides an overview of cultural, diplomatic, economic, and political relations between countries in the Western Hemisphere in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, with particular emphasis on relations between the United States and Latin America since the 1930s. Students in this course are encouraged to examine evidence and reach appropriate conclusions. Students with closed minds are urged to find another course.

ASSIGNED READING:

GRADING:

In-Class Exams: 20 percent
Essay: 20 percent
Final Exam (not comprehensive): 20 percent
Discussion Prep Sheets: 25 percent
Participation: 15 percent

Grading scale:

90-100: A
80-89: B
70-79: C
60-69: D
59 and below: F

To help you feel ready to talk about the reading on the days when discussion is the main order of business and to prove to me that you have done the reading for that day, you will be required to write two typed paragraphs to be handed in. In these paragraphs, you should 1). Provide a summary of the main points addressed in the reading and 2). Address points you want to talk about with the other members of the class. Late “discussion prep sheets” will not be accepted (this means, among other things, that you cannot be absent for the discussion and hand in the prep sheet at the end of class)! (Common sense would indicate that exceptions will be made when absences are excused.)

On one occasion, we will be discussing a documentary which we will have seen in the preceding class. In that discussion prep sheet, you should summarize the main points in the film and address the issue of whether US policy towards Cuba should be changed.

If you hand in the essay late, your grade will be lowered one-third of a grade for each day it is late.

Please note that attendance matters and will be factored into the participation grade. According to Texas A&M University guidelines: “If the student is seeking an excused absence, the student must notify the instructor as soon as possible after the absence, but no later than the second working day after the last date of absence.”

Students who commit acts of plagiarism (“the appropriation of another person’s ideas, processes, results or words without giving appropriate credit”) will be reported to the authorities. For further information, please consult www.tamu.edu/aggiehonor

“The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please contact the Department of Student Life, Services for Students with Disabilities, in 116B, Cain Hall. The phone number is 845-1637.”
